BIOSKETCH

Dr. Kurz is a faculty member in both the departments of Internal Medicine and Pediatrics. He is originally from the Midwest but has enjoyed living in North Carolina for many years. He graduated from Virginia Tech in 1988 as a mechanical engineer and worked in aircraft design before deciding on medical school at the University of Missouri in Columbia. He completed his residency at UNC Chapel Hill and spent his first two years of practice in Wilmington, NC. He joined the UNC faculty in 1999 and helped start Chatham Crossing Medical Center where he has practiced since. In 2008 he was asked to develop The Carolina Clinic at UNC for Executive Wellness, UNC's new executive health program, which opened in May of 2009. He has a special interest in preventative health as well as management of medically complex patients of all ages. His style of care is to know his patients well both on a medical and personal level, and treat them as partners in their care. Aside from practicing medicine, Dr. Kurz enjoys spending his free time with his wife and four children and tries to be outdoors as much as possible.
