Statistics

* Approximately 1 in 10 Americans aged 60+ have experienced some form of elder abuse. Some estimates range as high as 5 million elders who are abused each year. One study estimated that only 1 in 14 cases of abuse are reported to authorities.

In almost 90% of elder abuse and neglect incidents, the perpetrator is a member of the family. Two thirds of perpetrators are adult children or spouses. Domestic abuse by a spouse or partner may be a continuation of a long-lasting pattern of abuse in an elder’s relationship.

Lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender elders face high rates of victimization, yet may not report abuse for fear of further discrimination. Because they are less likely to have children and more likely to be single, their support networks may be smaller, so less available to help when abuse occurs. ~SAGE

What is Neglect?
Neglect occurs when an older or disabled adult lives alone but cannot take care of their own basic physical and mental needs, or when their caregiver is not providing the necessary services the person requires for physical and mental health.

Who is a Vulnerable Adult?
A person 18 or older, who is physically or mentally unable to take care of themselves or make responsible decisions for their wellbeing. This may be because of intellectual or developmental disabilities, brain damage, or other illness. The vulnerable adult has to rely on someone else to help them, and may be harmed if the person they are relying on abuses the vulnerable adult, or neglects to assist them.

Types of Abuse

Physical: pushing, slapping, hitting, pulling hair, burning, biting, choking/strangulation, using a weapon or item to physically harm you, breaking/smashing things, hurting pets.

Emotional/Verbal: name-calling, putting you down, humiliating you, insulting you in private or in public, threatening you, isolating you.

Psychological: controlling you, invalidating your reality, making you feel you’re “crazy”, destroying your self-confidence, making you feel that everything is your fault, playing mind games.

Sexual: forcing you to have unwanted touch or sexual contact, drugging you or getting you intoxicated in order to have sexual contact, forcing you to do things you are uncomfortable with sexually.

Confinement: restraining or isolating you, other than for medical reasons. Not allowing privacy.

Passive Neglect: your caregiver’s failure to provide you with life’s necessities such as food, clothing, shelter, or medical care.

Willful Deprivation: denying you medication, medical care, food, shelter, a therapeutic device or other physical assistance, and exposing you to the risk of physical, mental, or emotional harm.

Financial Exploitation: illegal/improper use of funds, property, or assets. Cashing checks without authorization, stealing money or possessions, making you sign documents you’re not fully informed about, taking/using your medications, etc.
