Newton D. Fischer Society Meeting
June 5, 2010

Course Description: For decades the Department of Otolaryngology/Head and Neck Surgery has trained medical students and residents. The first chairman of the Division of Otolaryngology/Head and Neck Surgery was Newton D. Fischer. Dr. Fischer's emphasis on medical students and residents education, as well as research, continues to shape the philosophy of the department to this day. Clinical practice within this field involves the medical and surgical diagnosis and management of very common to very rare diseases such as treatment of the neck in squamous cell carcinoma, chronic rhinosinusitis, and auditory neuropathy. Novel research and emerging technologies are changing how these disease processes are managed, including endoscopic approaches and external approaches. This meeting will provide an overview of education and surgical techniques for the practicing Otolaryngologists/Head and Neck Surgeon.

Target Audience: Otolaryngologists/Head and Neck Surgeons

Accreditation: The School of Medicine of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.
