Upcoming TIBBS-sponsored Events

Thurs 9/9 12:00 to 1:00 Bioinformatics 1131
Careers in Science Writing

Dr. Nicole Ramocki received her PhD from the UNC Department of Cell and Molecular Physiology under the direction of Dr. Kay Lund. Nicole accepted a position as a medical writer after she defended her PhD thesis and has since had 3 science writing positions. Her current employer is seeking science writers who recently graduated or will soon graduate with their PhD in a biomedical field. Nicole will share her experiences in the career field of science writing and her knowledge about the various types of careers and how to land a job in this career.

Bagels, cream cheese, humus and fruit will be provided.

Monday 9/13 4:00 to 6:00pm
Bondurant 2025
Walk in CV/Cover Letter Clinic

Are you getting ready for the job hunt or thinking about contacting potential postdoc mentors? Do you need to submit an updated CV for a fellowship application or travel award or just want to make sure your CV is ready when someone asks for it? Stop by with a draft of your CV or cover letter and a member of the TIBBS staff will help you tweak it for maximum impact. No registration necessary—just walk in.

Tuesday 9/21 12:00 noon
in the Lobby of the Bioinformatics Bldg
TIBBS Sushi Social

This month's social will be a sushi tasting. Come on over to the lobby outside the TIBBS/BBSP offices to enjoy a fresh assortment of rice and seaweed rolls, sushi, sashimi, and of course... wasabi! Please bring your OneCard to be served.

Pioneering Postdoc Programs

Your postdoctoral training period is the ideal time to hone your skills and get needed experience that will make you the perfect candidate for the career of your choice.

There are many unique postdoc programs that train fellows in a variety of in-demand skills and these training opportunities are often shorter and more structured than the traditional academic postdoc. They teach a specific skill set and can be a fast track to a “real job” afterwards.

Each month in the TIBBS Times we'll highlight a different fellowship opportunity. This month's spotlight is on Genentech's prestigious industry postdoc program.

Genentech Industry Postdoctoral Program

Genentech's Postdoctoral Program has become one of the highest regarded (and most selective) industry postdoc programs in the world. As a Genentech Postdoctoral Research Fellow working in either Research or Development Sciences, you would find yourself collaborating with world-class scientists both at the company and beyond Genentech's walls. The fellowships typically last four years and offer the chance to do cutting-edge research in an inspired, purposeful, and resource-rich environment. The program offers an unrivaled opportunity to put yourself at the forefront of science. Check out the following links for more information

September 2010 Seminars (page 1 of 3)

September 2nd

“Biological Targets to Novel Therapeutics – Translational Efforts of the UNC Center for integrative Chemical Biology and Drug Discovery”

Held in Sitterson Hall, Room 014 from 5:30pm – 6:30pm. Networking Session: 6:30pm – 8:30pm at Top of the Hill restaurant & Brewery, Tank Room (2nd floor).

Dr. Stephen Frye, Director of the CICBDD, will be discussing the goals and ongoing efforts of the CICBDD and the ways that these efforts are helping to position UNC to complete the cycle from basic scientific research through translational drug discovery to clinical studies. Dr. Frye received his B.S. in chemistry from NC State and then his Ph.D. in organic chemistry at UNC before beginning his career at GSK as a medicinal chemist. In 2000, Dr. Frye was selected to lead GSK’s High Throughput Chemistry Group that evolved into Discovery Medicinal Chemistry.

Dr. Jian Jin, Associate Director of the CICBDD, will also be present to discuss his ‘open source’ approach to discovery of chemical probes for epigenetic targets. Prior to joining the CICBDD in 2008, Dr. Jin had more than 10 years of medicinal chemistry and drug discovery experience at GSK, where he most recently served as a Manager of Medicinal Chemistry from 2003 to 2008. Dr. Jin is currently using his expertise in medicinal chemistry to further collaborative projects with other UNC faculty that have discovered novel therapeutic targets. The role of sexual selection in rapid phenotypic change in the Hirundo rustica (barn swallow) species complex

Presented by Rebecca Safran, University of Colorado, held in Coker 215 at 12:00pm.

Carolina KickStart Commercialization Webinar Series

12:00-1:00 PM

Commercializing University Technology:

Building Effective Public-Private Partnerships

Speaker: Dr. Joe DeSimone

To Attend the Webinar

Go to <https://unchealth.ncgovconnect.com/pubprivpart/>

1. Login under the GUEST button – please use your full name.

The system will prompt you to enter your telephone number and will automatically call the number you enter. The audio portion of the webinar will be broadcast over your telephone.

About the Webinar Series

Carolina KickStart is offering a series of commercialization webinars to provide foundational information to overcome barriers to commercialization for aspiring entrepreneurs. All Carolina KickStart webinars are archived for later viewing on Carolina Kickstart’s website. For a complete listing of and to view all of the webinars, go to www.carolinakickstart.com, and click on Commercialization Webinars on the left hand side menu.

September 7th

“Biomechanical regulation of MSC lineage allocation”

Presented by Dr. Janet Rubin, UNC Professor of Medicine, Pediatrics & Pharmacology. Sponsored by Leslie Parise, held in 1131 Bioinformatics from 11am – 12pm. For more information: <http://www.med.unc.edu/biochem/events/2010-fall-seminars/rubin>

September 8th

Medicinal Chemistry and Natural Products: Approach and Source to New Drug Discovery

Presented by Kuo-Hsiung Lee, Distinguished Professor, UNC-CH, School of Pharmacy, held in Kerr Hall 2001 at 3pm.

September 10th

Tissue factor and coagulation in chronic liver disease

Presented by James Luyendyk, PhD, held in Pagano Conference Room, LCCC from 11am – 12pm.

Age-dependent variation in male mating effort: role of population age-structure in the evolution of sperm competition

Presented by Sumit Dhole, sponsored by K.Pfennig/Servedio, held in Coker 215 at 12:00pm.

September 13th

Triclosan Disrupts Thyroxne in Rats: Mode-of-Action, Developmental Susceptibility, and Human Relevance

Presented by Katie B. Paul, held in 1131 Bioinformatics Building at 4:00pm

September 14th

“EM-fold: De novo protein folding guided by intermediate-resolution electron microscopy density maps”

Presented by Jens Meiler, sponsored by Brian Kuhlman, held in G202 MBRB from 11am – 12pm. For more information: <http://www.med.unc.edu/biochem/events/2010-fall-seminars/meiler>

Genome-Wide Measurement of Transcription Factor Binding Dynamics by Competition ChIP

Presented by Jason Lieb, Prof., UNC-CH, Biology, held in Kerr Hall 2001 at 3:00pm.

September 17th

Adaptive evolution of M3 lysin, a candidate gamete-recognition gene in the Mytilus edulis species complex

Presented by Thiago Lima, sponsored by Willett, held in Coker 215 at 12:00pm.

Gene Therapy through Platelet Drug Delivery in Hemophilia A and B

Presented by Dr. Bob Montgomery, sponsored by Biochemistry & Biophysics Graduate Students, held in Pagano conference room/LCCC from 11am – 12pm.

September 20th

Development of /in vitro/ and / in vivo/ Models to Examine Trichloroethylene-Induced Renal Toxicity

Presented by Michelle C. Desimone, held in 1131 Bioinformatics Building at 4:00pm

September 21st

Re-engineering receptor footprints on viruses—Biochemistry and Biophysics

Presented by Aravind Asokan, sponsored by Leslie Parise, held in Bioinformatics 1131 from 11am – 12pm. For more information: <http://www.med.unc.edu/biochem/events/2010-fall-seminars/asokan>

September 21st

Molecular Analysis of Lung Cancer Progression.

This year the students of the Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine will be hosting the annual Marc J Mass Memorial Distinguished Lecture that will feature Dr. Tyler Jacks. An investigator of Howard Hughes Medical Institute, Dr. Tyler Jacks is the David H. Koch Professor of Biology and Director of the Koch Institute for Integrative Cancer Research at MIT. His research interests include genetic events that contribute to the development of cancer and the development of several cancer mouse models including models of pancreatic cancer, non small cell lung cancer, and astrocytoma. His lecture will take place Tuesday, September 21, 2010, in Rm G202 MBRB at 10:30 am.

September 22nd

Afm and Single Molecule Fluorescence Studies of Dna Repair

Presented by Dorothy Erie, Prof., UNC-CH, Chemistry, held in Kerr Hall 2001 at 3pm.

September 23rd

UNCNC Fall Seminar Series— Ken McCarthy, PhD

Sponsored by UNC Neuroscience Center, held in 1131 Bioinformatics Bldg. from 12:30pm – 1:30pm

September 24th

Research Day 2010

Presented by Kathleen Caron, Ben Philpot, and Jennifer Lippincott-Schwartz, sponsored by Cell & Molecular Physiology, held in the Medical Biomolecular Research Building from 12pm – 5pm. To register: http://cfx.research.unc.edu/res_classreg/browse_single.cfm?New=1&event_id=22654

Understanding geographic variation in avian community structure

Presented by Allen Hurlbert, held in Coker 215 at 12:00pm.

September 27th

“Ethanol Regulation of GABAA Receptors is Dependent Upon PKC α and Modulated by PKA: Physiological Implications.”

Presented by Leslie Morrow, Ph.D., sponsored by the Bowles Center for Alcohol Studies, held in Taylor Hall, Room 124 from 12:30pm -1:30pm.

Cigarette Smoking Modulates Influenza-Induced Responses of the Respiratory Epiithelium

Presented by Katherine Horvath, held in 1131 Bioinformatics Building at 4:00pm.

September 28th

“The CVNH Family of Lectins – Structure, Folding, Sugar Binding & HIV Interaction”

Presented by Angela Gronenborn, sponsored by the Biochemistry & Biophysics Graduate Students, held in 1131 Bioinformatics from 1pm- 2pm. For more information: <http://www.med.unc.edu/biochem/events/2010-fall-seminars/gronenborn>

September 29th

Lipid Mediated Delivery of Rnai Therapeutics

Presented by Nathan Oien, UNC-CH, School of Pharmacy, held in Kerr Hall 2001 at 3:00pm.

September 30th

UNCNC Fall Seminar Series - Edwin Monuki, MD PhD

The Mouse Dorsal Telencephalon as a Classic Morphogen Gradient and Selector Gene. Sponsored by UNC Neuroscience Center, held in 1131 Bioinformatics Bldg. from 12:30pm – 1:30pm.

September 2010 Campus Workshops and Events (page 1 of 7)

September 1st

Leading Effective Discussion

In order for discussions to be an efficient use of class time, they must be conducted with clear goals and a solid plan for achieving those goals. Effective discussions can increase students' retention skills, help students connect class concepts with previous experiences or with global issues, and enable students to achieve higher-order learning objectives. Participants in this workshop will explore the design of effective discussions, including increasing student participation, posing questions of increasing complexity, and using reflection to promote deeper exploration into the topics being discussed. Held in 318 Wilson Library (CFE Conference Room) from 12pm – 1pm. To register: http://www.abcsignup.com/reg/event_page.aspx?ek=0052-0006-7f360e0b8ee34e0eb1c41f0d9c6b8857

September 2nd

Transitioning to Microsoft Office 2007

Microsoft's Office suite just got an upgrade. In this workshop we'll learn how to navigate the Office 2007 workspace in Word, Excel, and PowerPoint. We'll explore features such as the ribbon, tabs, and context-sensitivity. Topics covered include saving in old .doc/.xls/.ppt formats; inserting pictures in Word; creating tables in Excel; and creating basic PowerPoint presentations. Class time will also be devoted to answering your specific questions. This class will end the desperate hunt for your favorite buttons! Classes are open to SOM faculty and to staff and medical students working on faculty curriculum projects. Each class includes hands-on use of Multimedia Lab equipment. Held in 67 MacNider Hall from 12pm-1pm. To register: <http://www.med.unc.edu/ois/multimediaclassform>

Mouse Handling and Techniques

The IACUC Mouse Handling and Techniques class is a hands-on wet lab designed to teach students basic techniques in mouse handling. Techniques taught include restraint, simple injections, bleeding techniques, anesthesia, and euthanasia. This course is mandatory for all Laboratory Animal Coordinators in laboratories working with live mice. All UNC mouse handlers are welcome to attend. Alternatively, training and certification may be provided through a certified proficient Laboratory Animal Coordinator. Prerequisites (Required in Advance): Research Profile, Lab Worker Form, Animal Handler Form, and IACUC/DLAM on-line orientation (http://cfx3.research.unc.edu/iacuc_reg/). Held in Glaxo 148 from 10am – 12pm. This event is full. To join the waitlist: http://cfx.research.unc.edu/res_classreg/reg_person.cfm?event_id=22569&new=1

Group Work: Developing Skills for Learning and for Life

Group work is widely used in college classrooms and is also a skill expected of our graduates when they apply for jobs. As with the development and delivery of your course content, group assignments need careful planning if they are to enhance the learning experience and develop collaboration skills for your students. In this workshop, participants will learn to structure effective short-and long term group work assignments, identify ways to minimize problems often encountered with group work, and develop methods to assess student learning within the group. Held in 318 Wilson Library (CFE Conference Room) from 12:30pm - 1:30pm. To register: http://www.abcsignup.com/reg/event_page.aspx?ek=0052-0006-1bff68e4d0984e8492ef292fd029451a

September 8th

Teaching to Different Levels of Students

Discuss effective strategies to ensure all students are learning. Co-sponsored with the Center for Faculty Excellence. Held in the Graduate Student Center, 211A West Cameron Ave. from 12:00pm-1:30pm. Registration coming soon: <http://gradschool.unc.edu/student/profdev/events.html>

Rat Handling and Techniques

The IACUC Rat Handling and Techniques class is a hands-on wet lab designed to teach students basic techniques in rat handling. Techniques taught include restraint, simple injections, bleeding techniques, anesthesia, and euthanasia. This course is mandatory for all Laboratory Animal Coordinators in laboratories working with live rats. All UNC rat handlers are welcome to attend. Alternatively, training and certification may be provided through a certified proficient Laboratory Animal Coordinator. Prerequisites (Required in Advance): Research Profile, Lab Worker Form, Animal Handler Form, and IACUC/DLAM online orientation (http://cfx3.research.unc.edu/iacuc_reg/). Sponsored by the Office of Animal Care and Use. Held in Glaxo 148 from 10am-12pm. This event is full. Photoshop I: Introduction

Photoshop is a powerful imaging tool that lets you adjust and enhance images. In this class you will gain a comprehensive understanding of the Photoshop workspace environment and will be able to navigate with confidence into the myriad of menus and dialog boxes. You will also learn about the significance of different file formats, such as GIFs, TIFFs, JPEGs, and PSDs, when working with images for the Web or print. Our expert teachers will take the guess work out of this complex program with tips and techniques to help save you time and frustration. Classes are open to SOM faculty and to staff and medical students working on faculty curriculum projects. Each class includes hands-on use of OIS equipment. Held in 67 MacNider Hall from 12pm -1pm. To register: <http://www.med.unc.edu/ois/multimediaclassform>

Basic EndNote

This Basic EndNote class will touch on the fundamental functions of the EndNote software. Building your library, managing your sources, and inserting your citations into your documents will be the focus of what we will cover. This class is structured for new to beginning users. Held in the Health Sciences Library, Room 329 from 10am - 11am. To register: <http://www.hsl.unc.edu/Services/Classes/classregistration.cfm>

September 10th

Introduction to Outlook 2007

You probably already know that you can use Microsoft Outlook to manage your email, but did you know that Outlook also includes tools to help you manage your schedule, tasks, contacts, and notes? One of the major advantages to using Outlook is its integrated tool set, yet many people aren't aware of all of Outlook's capabilities. Take some time to get acquainted with some of the useful, integrated tools Outlook offers. Classes are open to SOM faculty and to staff and medical students working on faculty curriculum projects. Each class includes hands-on use of Multimedia Lab equipment. Held in 67 MacNider from 12pm -1pm. To register: <http://www.med.unc.edu/ois/multimediaclassform>

September 13th

PowerPoint: Tips & Techniques

You know the basics of creating a PowerPoint presentation, but now you'd like to take your presentations to a new level. In this workshop you'll learn more advanced techniques to enhance your PowerPoint presentations. Topics covered include drawing tools, slide animations, headers and footers, slide masters, automated presentations, and more. Class time will also be devoted to answering your specific questions. After attending this workshop, you'll no longer have to ask yourself-"How did they get their presentation to do that?" Classes are open to SOM faculty and to staff and medical students working on faculty curriculum projects. Each class includes hands-on use of Multimedia Lab equipment. Held in 67 MacNider from 12pm - 1pm. To register: <http://www.med.unc.edu/ois/multimediaclassform>

September 14th

Photoshop II: Layers

In this class, you will learn essential skills that will become the foundation for creating images in Photoshop. Photoshop lets you isolate different parts of an image on layers. Each layer can then be edited independently, allowing tremendous flexibility in creating and revising an image. You'll learn step-by-step how to use the most important Layers features and techniques that will take your skills to a whole new level of efficiency and creativity. Classes are open to SOM faculty and to staff and medical students working on faculty curriculum projects. Each class includes hands-on use of OIS equipment. Held in 67 MacNider Hall from 12:00pm -1:30pm. To register: <http://www.med.unc.edu/ois/multimediaclassform>

Finding Funding Opportunities for Students in Health Sciences

Held in 307 Health Sciences Library from 2:30pm - 4:00pm. Contact the GrantSource Library at 962-3463 for more information.

Financial Planning

Learn how to manage personal finances during your time at UNC. Held in the Graduate Student Center, 211A West Cameron Ave. from 11am-12pm and 2pm-3pm. Registration coming soon: <http://gradschool.unc.edu/student/profdev/events.html>

From Nominations to Funding and Beyond: Limited Submission Grants and Awards

What happens when I can't apply directly to an agency for a grant or an award? Who at the university chooses? How do I get involved? The Office of Research Development (ORD) at UNC-Chapel Hill facilitates the Limited Submission Grants and Awards program. Come and hear about the Limited Submissions program's peer-reviewed selection process, peer-mentoring, and its relationship to faculty and research development. Held in Bondurant Hall, Room 030 from 1pm - 2pm. To register: http://www.abcsignup.com/reg/event_page.aspx?ek=0052-0006-0b18c8142f39441e8a88aebdd928a41b

Advanced EndNote

9/14/2010 from 1:00pm to 2:00pm, HSL - 329

No Description This class is designed as a hands-on workshop for users with some EndNote experience. We will review how to import references most efficiently, using the "Cite While You Write" feature, and some more advanced features such as finding full-text and editing output styles. Please bring your questions. Held in the Health Sciences Library from 1pm - 2pm. To register: <http://www.hsl.unc.edu/Services/Classes/classregistration.cfm>

September 15th

Basic Mouse Breeding Colony Management

This hour long training course is intended to be a beginner's guide to basic mouse colony management. It is not mandatory and is available for any mouse user on campus. Course topics include information on the mouse life cycle, breeding tips, record keeping, data management, and troubleshooting. Sponsored by the Office of Animal Care and Use. Held in Glaxo 148 from 10am-11am. To register: http://cfx.research.unc.edu/res_classreg/reg_person.cfm?event_id=22625&new=1

Sponsored by NC TraCS (Translational and Clinical Sciences) Institute: NIH CTSA at UNC-CH - Translational Technologies Core. This is a webinar. The attendee will view the webinar from their location via computer from 1pm - 2pm.

September 16th

Photoshop III: Selections

This class will teach you essential principles of not only how to make and modify selections but why they are so important. You'll learn how to use Photoshop's selection tools to manipulate areas of the image without affecting the entire image. You will also learn how to apply these selections to layers for greater flexibility in editing the image. Understanding the use of selection tools is essential to editing images in Photoshop. Classes are open to SOM faculty and to staff and medical students working on faculty curriculum projects. Each class includes hands-on use of OIS equipment. Held in 67 MacNider Hall from 12pm-1pm. To register: <http://www.med.unc.edu/ois/multimediaclassform>

Protecting Research Subjects in the Digital Age: Lessons Learned the Hard Way

2010-2011 Ethics Grand Rounds are sponsored by the Ethics Core of NC TraCS Institute, the UNC Office of Human Research Ethics, and the Center for Biomedical Ethics (and other units when topics are appropriate). Talks will be the 3rd Thursday of every month. These events are headed up by Dr. Gail Henderson (ghenders@med.unc.edu | 843.8268). Held in TraCS conference room #219, Brinkhous-Bullitt from 12pm - 1pm.

September 2010 Campus Workshops and Events (page 5 of 7)

Classroom Management

Learn how to manage your course, students and address issues that arise during your teaching. Co-sponsored with the Center for Faculty Excellence.

Held in the Graduate Student Center, 211A West Cameron Ave. from 12:00pm – 1:30pm. Registration coming soon: <http://gradschool.unc.edu/student/profdev/events.html>

Aseptic Techniques

The IACUC Aseptic Techniques class is a hands-on wet lab designed to teach students how to maintain a sterile field during survival rodent surgery. This course is mandatory for all Laboratory Animal Coordinators in laboratories performing sterile rodent surgery. All UNC rodent users who will be performing sterile survival surgeries are encouraged to attend. Alternatively, training and certification may be provided through a certified proficient Laboratory Animal Coordinator.

Prerequisites (Required in Advance): Research Profile, Lab Worker Form, Animal Handler Form, and IACUC/DLAM on-line orientation (http://cfx3.research.unc.edu/iacuc_reg/). Sponsored by the Office of Animal Care and Use. Held in Glaxo 148 from 10am-12pm. This event is full. September 21st

Photoshop IV: Masks

In this class you will learn the advanced skill of masking. Using layer masks you can nondestructively conceal parts of an image or an adjustment made to an image. With masks you can also isolate and manipulate specific parts of an image. Masks are convenient in that they can be edited repeatedly without permanently affecting the underlying image. Masks are a key component to creating photo collages. Classes are open to SOM faculty and to staff and medical students working on faculty curriculum projects. Each class includes hands-on use of OIS equipment. Held in 67 MacNider Hall from 12pm -1pm. To register: <http://www.med.unc.edu/ois/multimediaclassform>

Mouse Handling and Techniques

The IACUC Mouse Handling and Techniques class is a hands-on wet lab designed to teach students basic techniques in mouse handling. Techniques taught include restraint, simple injections, bleeding techniques, anesthesia, and euthanasia. This course is mandatory for all Laboratory Animal Coordinators in laboratories working with live mice. All UNC mouse handlers are welcome to attend. Prerequisites (Required in Advance): Research Profile, Lab Worker Form, Animal Handler Form, and IACUC/DLAM on-line orientation (http://cfx3.research.unc.edu/iacuc_reg/). Sponsored by the Office of Animal Care and Use. Held in Glaxo 148 from 10am - 12pm. This event is full. Sigma Xi Pizza Lunch Kickoff

Now that summer is starting to fade, here is something else to look forward to: The 2010-2011 American Scientist Pizza Lunch speaker series returns next month.

Join us at noon, Tuesday, Sept. 21 here at Sigma Xi to hear Duke University cognitive psychologist Elizabeth Brannon give a talk entitled: "Evolutionary and Developmental Precursors for the Human Mathematical Mind." In other words, Brannon studies what we all take for granted: our ability to do the numbers. She does it, in part, with studies of human babies and other primates.

September 2010 Campus Workshops and Events (page 6 of 7)

Thanks to a grant from the N.C. Biotechnology Center, American Scientist Pizza Lunch is free and open to science journalists and science communicators of all stripes. Feel free to forward this message to anyone who might want to attend. RSVPs are required (for the slice count) to cclabby@amsci.org

Directions to Sigma Xi, the Scientific Research Society in RTP, are here: <http://www.sigmaxi.org/about/center/directions.shtml>

September 23rd

Photoshop V: Creating Web Graphics

In the final installment of our Photoshop classes, you will learn to create images for use on the Web. This course will familiarize you with concepts and techniques required to optimize images for display on the Internet. You will also learn about several graphic formats that are appropriate for Web images, and how to choose the best one for output. Classes are open to SOM faculty and to staff and medical students working on faculty curriculum projects. Each class includes hands-on use of OIS equipment. Held in 67 MacNider Hall from 12pm - 1pm. To register: <http://www.med.unc.edu/ois/multimediaclassform>

Graduate Funding – Sciences & Health Sciences

Get a jump start on proposal writing for graduate funding! This half-day workshop will provide an introduction to the library's resources, strategies for conducting funding searches, effective writing strategies and insight into literature reviews. The workshop includes a panel discussion with students and faculty who have experience with writing for funding at the graduate level as well as tips from funding review committees. Participants will leave the workshop with important resources and an action plan for developing fundable proposals. Please bring a laptop computer so that you can navigate through the workshop's activities. The Graduate Student Center has wireless access to the UNC-1 system.

Co-sponsored by the Graduate School, the Writing Center, GrantSource Library and the University Libraries. Lunch will be provided, please register only if you are able to attend the full session, seating is limited. Held in the Graduate Student Center, 211A West Cameron Ave. from 9am-1pm. To register: http://cfx.research.unc.edu/res_classreg/browse_single.cfm?New=1&event_id=22659

Department of Cell and Molecular Physiology Research Day 2010

The 14th Annual Research Day of the Department of Cell & Molecular Physiology at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine will be held on Friday, September 24th on the UNC campus.

Research Day provides a forum to share the Department's research and to promote scientific interactions with students and researchers from other departments and institutions. This year's event will include talks from Departmental faculty, poster sessions, and a keynote talk from Dr. Jennifer Lippincott-Schwartz titled "Breakthroughs in Imaging Using Photoactivatable Fluorescent Protein Technology".

Sponsored by Cell and Molecular Physiology. Held in Medical Biomolecular Research Building from 12pm-5pm. To register: http://cfx.research.unc.edu/res_classreg/reg_person.cfm?event_id=22654&new=1

FIFTH RTP RODENT PATHOLOGY COURSE

This is the 5th state-of-the-art biennial course that will focus on fundamental and emerging issues of rodent hepatobiliary pathology. The first four courses were a raging success: Reproductive Pathology (2002), Neuropathology (2004), Cardiopulmonary Pathology (2006) and Immunopathology (2008) each with about 150 attendees. The course is designed to provide useful information on current issues and techniques in rodent pathology to research and diagnostic pathologists, pathologists-in-training, and interested members of the research community. (continued on next page)

September 2010 Campus Workshops and Events (page 7 of 7)

The course this year features ~20 presentations covering state-of-the-art rodent hepatobiliary system pathology and research as well as an interactive case presentation workshop led by Dr. Jerrold Ward. Our keynote speaker is Anna Mae Diehl, MD, Chief Division of Gastroenterology at Duke University Medical School who will give a presentation entitled "Rodent models of progressive liver injury: Responses of progenitor and fibroblastic populations." The sessions are didactic and cover basic and advanced techniques in handling and interpreting tissues, special techniques for diagnostics and a review of diseases of the rodent hepatobiliary system. Normal anatomy and histology will be covered, followed by presentations on mechanisms of disease, toxicologic pathology and animal models. PlayMakers Repertory Company - 'Happy Days'–7:30pm

PRC2 second-stage series: “Happy Days” by Samuel Beckett: Sept. 8-12, 2010. Elizabeth Price
Kenan Theatre.

When life closes in, do you give way or whistle a happy tune and get on with it? Winnie’s made her choice to soldier on in the face of mounting adversity in the form of a smothering sand pile. Outrageous auteur Beckett gives us the absurdist comedy of his career in this challenging exploration of life and perseverance.

McCoy Tyner Quartet—7:30pm

McCoy Tyner's harmonic contributions and dramatic rhythmic devices have left their mark on generations of jazz pianists. A former member of the John Coltrane Quartet with four Grammy Awards and nearly 80 albums, Tyner renders a sophisticated blues-based style shaped modern jazz, which has become one of the most identifiable sounds in improvised music. Always expanding his vision of the musical landscape and incorporating new elements, whether from distant continents or diverse musical influences, he has collaborated with artists as varied as Derek Trucks, Bela Fleck and Savion Glover. Jill McCorkle reads from the paperback release of her short story collection GOING AWAY SHOES—7-8pm

Jill McCorkle, one of Flyleaf's favorite authors and a master of the short story whose work has been compared to that of Alice Munro and Lorrie Moore, is a writer whose characters insist on our immediate and total attention. Here, in her first collection in eight years, are eleven new stories bristling with her signature wit and weight. One way or the other, all of these stories are about women looking love in the face without flinching. Some of them are confronting the reality of domestic disruption, others are simply flirting with the possibilities—and dangers—of change. McCorkle's characters make mistakes but aren't interested in hiding behind them. They get divorced or quit their jobs or tell people to step aside, and they move on.

"The Philosopher Kings" Film Screening—7pm.

In early 2009 two filmmakers chose Duke Chapel's housekeeper Oscar Dantzler along with six other housekeepers from other universities to feature in their documentary, "The Philosopher Kings." In June, the movie debuted at the Silver Docs film festival in Maryland, and now is being screened at the campuses where the featured custodians work and other film festivals. In search of wisdom found in unlikely places, The Philosopher Kings takes us on a journey through the halls of the most prestigious colleges and universities in America to learn from the staff members who see it all and have been through it all: the custodians.
