

News from the RESOURCE HUB

Collaboration is a key strength across the UNC School of Medicine for fostering connections and bolstering the translational research pipeline.

Expand your research network with the Faculty Collaboration Database!

Faculty Collaboration Database

The School of Medicine (SOM) Office of Research (OoR) created this collaboration tool to help faculty and research teams expand their research network by connecting them with complementary expertise and resources.

Visit the faculty collaboration database to explore opportunities for collaboration across the SOM.

A good way to start your search is to use the Department/Center Affiliations and Clinical/Research Interest dropdown filters. You can also do Keyword Search independently or to further refine your filter results using the faculty's self-submitted research description.

Your feedback is important!

Faculty who wish to update their current profile or add their profile to the collaboration database, please submit an entry via the Faculty Submission Page.

If you have any questions or feedback about the database, please contact the OoR at jenbren@med.unc.edu.
