News from the RESOURCE HUB

It is the responsibility of research personnel to maintain awareness of and compliance with policies and procedures that apply to their work activities and locations.

Do you know about all the clinical research-related policies and procedures that pertain to your scope of work?

The CRSO has created a bridge webpage to optimize access to clinical research-related policies and procedures housed in the SOM, UNC-Chapel Hill Electronic Policy Repository, and UNC Health PolicyStat.

Explore the CRSO's Policies and Procedures bride page to access and review UNC Chapel Hill and UNC Health clinical research-related policies and procedures.

CRSO Policies and Procedures Bridge Page

The policies and procedures are organized by responsible units. A good way to start is to link to the policies and procedures tied to each of the listed units. You may also click the link to the University Electronic Policy Repository or UNC Health Policy Stat to search for specific policies or procedures (e.g., informed consent, research billing), titles, applicability, and responsible units.

Your feedback is important!

If you have any questions or concerns about a specific policy, please reach out to the Responsible Unit or Issuing Officer listed within the document. If you have general UNC-Chapel Hill policy questions, please contact the Office of Ethics and Policy at policy@unc.edu.

Please research out to the CRSO if you have questions or feedback about the policies and procedures bridge page or suggestions for new resources. Click here to access previous Resource Hubs and other CRSO Informational emails distributed on the CRSO Listserv.
